With statistics for management, Levin and Rubin provided a non-intending business statistics manual that students can easily read and understand. As its predecessors, the Seventh Edition includes the absolute minimum of mathematical/statistic notation required to teach the material. The concepts are fully explained in a simple and easy language to understand how they are presented, making the text an excellent source from which to learn and teach. After each discussion, readers are guided through examples of the real world to show how the textbook principles work in professional practice. NEW - Divide end exercises in (1) self-control exercises with elaborate answers, (2) basic exercises and (3) application exercises. NEW - Features "Hints and Assumptions," notes that re-examine important assumptions in troubleshooting, provide useful tips to work the following exercises, and warn students of potential pitfalls in finding solutions. NEW - Adopt Minitab as the preferred PC package, doubling the number of computer examples with its arrival. NEW - Conducts all hypothesis tests using the standardized scale. NEW - Updates and scenarios for 150 exercises. Pg. NEW - Includes 150 new exercises. NEW - doubles the total number of exercises in the real world. Pg.
